

Merve Fard graduated from Yeditepe University, Istanbul with a Bachelor in Architecture with Honours.

Following this, she studied a Masters in Science in Architectural and Urban Design at the University of Edinburgh.

Merve joined Michael Laird Architects (MLA) in Edinburgh in 2014 and has since worked on a wide range of projects across the masterplanning, residential and office sectors. She qualified as an Architect in 2019 and is currently leading commercial and office projects at MLA. Upon her qualification, she volunteered to mentor Part I, Part II and Part III students during their studies.

Merve is a member of The British Council for Offices Next Generation and Women in Property in Scotland. She is also actively involved in MLA's 'functional structures', internal processes that aim to improve the quality of architectural procedures and management within the practice.

She became a member of the Board of the Architects Professional Examination Authority in Scotland (APEAS) in 2021.